The book is a collection of uplifting essays, poetry, romance and thoughts. They concentrate on diversity - Diversity in gender, behaviour, character, nationality and social class. Asking the question, have nature and time played a part in diversity, how do we accept and apply it to our daily lives? Hard work, time and opportunity work together to make us who we are.

Acceptance, good judgement, and family also shape our character.

The book also explores writing and creativity and outlines the steps toward the creative writing process
